CRIMINAL BUSINESS.

Hayken's Attorneys Enter Demurrers to the Indictments.

ON STATUTORY GROUNDS.

A BATCH OF OFFENDERS WILL BE ARRAIGNED TODAY.

Setting of Criminal Cases—Fergus Coalter's Application for a Receiver for Coalter & Snelgrove Argued and Substituted—Short Orders by Chief Justice Merritt—Court Cullings.

The following parties under indictment were ordered to appear for arraignment on today: William Hense, assault with intent to murder; Nephth Matthew, burglary; James Sullivan and John David Collinson, housebreaking; C. L. Larson, assault to rape; C. Larson, embezzlement; J. M. Wood, assault to murder; Samuel L. Matthews, assault with a deadly weapon; Frank Haas, assault and battery.

Attorney M. Marcus Nelson was arraigned on an indictment charging him with grand larceny. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Herman Ramberger, Joseph R. Morris, John P. Cahoon, Joseph M. Warren and Martin Hayken, all under indictment for alleged frauds in the matter of the city and county furniture deal were ordered to appear for arraignment on Monday next.

HAYKEN DEMURS.

Indictments Said to Be Illegal on Statutory Grounds.

The arguments on demurrer to the indictments against Martin Hayken were set for Nov. 17.

The grounds of the demurrer are substantially as follows:

That the grand jury had no legal authority to inquire into the offense charged, by reason of its not being within the legal jurisdiction of the court. That it does not substantially conform to the requirements of sections 150 and 151 of the criminal procedure of this territory, in that it does not contain a charge of a crime.

That it does not contain a concise statement of the acts or omissions constituting the offense as will enable the defendants to understand distinctly the character of the offense complained of.

That it is not direct and certain as regards the parties charged and the offense charged and is not direct and certain as to the particulars of the offense attempted to be charged.

That it does not set forth with certainty whether it is attempted to charge either of the defendants with acting as an agent or with attempting to buy and bribe an officer or each or either of them.

That more than one offense is charged in the indictment, in that it attempts to charge the offense of bribery, also that it attempts to charge the crime of conspiracy.

Also that it charges that some of the defendants for a consideration improperly and unlawfully sold their official influence for a consideration and other of the defendants with having purchased or bribed a public officer and in committing the two charges in one indictment and in one count, and finally that the facts stated in the indictment do not constitute a public offense.

Criminal Settings.

Chief Justice Merritt yesterday made the following settings of criminal cases for trial by Judge King while Judge Merritt is at Provo hearing the Alma Hague cases:

November 11—John Byrnes, assault to rape; M. Nelson, grand larceny.

November 12—Samuel Grice, burglary.

November 13—George W. Wilson, assault and battery, two cases; George W. Wilson, assault to rape, two cases.

November 14—Frank McDonald, assault to murder.

November 15—Nephth Blamires, murder in the first degree.

November 25—George Bates, murder in the second degree.

Cotter & Snelgrove Litigation.

The hearing on the application of Fergus Coalter for a receiver and for the winding up of the business of the Cotter & Snelgrove company came on before Chief Justice Merritt yesterday.

Messrs. Powers, Strapp & Lippman appeared on behalf of the plaintiff and Messrs. Rawlins & Critchlow for the defendants, Snelgrove.

Mr. Coalter, in support of his application, set up collusion and fraud on the part of the Snelgroves, alleging that they had combined together for the purpose of freezing him out and obtaining his share of the stock at a price greatly below its value. It was also alleged that the Snelgroves drew exorbitant salaries for their services to the company so that there would be no profits to divide and the plaintiff would get no dividends on his stock. This was entirely denied by the defendants who alleged that it was Coalter who tried to wreck the company by going into a similar business next door, taking all the trade he could from the company and wilfully injuring it by spreading such reports as greatly curtailed its credit.

The case was concluded and taken under advisement until Saturday morning.

Short Orders.

John R. Park vs Robert Morris Wilkinson; application for writ of assistance argued and submitted.

Anderson vs Salt Lake and Ogden Gas company; referred to E. B. Critchlow to take testimony and report.

Rebecca E. Carter vs Salt Lake Building and Loan association; referred to Waldemar Van Cott to take testimony and report.

Pacific Investment company vs. James P. Nelson et al.; judgment and decree of foreclosure for the plaintiff.

Court Cullings.

A. J. Pendleton and Theodore Loveland are suing Alonzo Keeler to recover $566.66 and interest on two promissory notes secured by a mortgage.

The petit jurors of the present panel who were excused from attendance until November 11, are expected to be present in court at 10 o'clock of the morning of that date.

Edward C. Abbott, a native of England, now a resident of Wayne county, was admitted to citizenship. Judge Baruch has gone south to hold court in the Second judicial district.
